VICTIM OF AFFAIR LIKELY TO RECOVER

W. E. D. Stokes Shot by Two Women in New York.

Millionaire Hotel Proprietor's Attorney Tells of Attack on Client.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The condition of W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire proprietor of the Hotel Ansonia and widely known horseman, who was shot last night by two young women in their apartment, was such this morning that his physicians say he will likely recover. The young women, Lillian Graham, an actress, and Ethel Conrad, an illustrator, formally charged with the shooting, were taken to police headquarters this morning on the verge of collapse. Three Japanese servants in the apartment house on West Eighteenth street, where Stokes was shot, are held as witnesses.

Miss Graham and Miss Conrad will be arraigned in court later and held to await the result of Mr. Stokes's injuries. Anti-toxin was administered to Mr. Stokes today and a further examination will be made to ascertain whether the two bullets still remain in the millionaire's ankle and thigh.

Mr. Stokes's attorney says his client went to the girls' apartment on receiving a message from Miss Conrad, to obtain some letters. Stokes denies that he had ever written any letters and when he reached the apartment his counsel says the door was locked behind him. "Miss Graham immediately drew a revolver and pointing to a pad on a desk at one side said 'Give me $25,000 and sign this agreement.'" Stokes's lawyer, Terance J. McManus, says that Stokes refused and that "thereupon Miss Graham fired two shots at him." Stokes took the revolver away from Miss Graham, who then, according to Mrs. McManus, called upon Miss Conrad to fire. Miss Conrad, Stokes's lawyer says, also fired, and as the millionaire backed into the hallway three Japanese servants set upon him.

Miss Graham, in a statement, says that Stokes came to her apartment and demanded letters which he admitted writing. When told that she had no letters Miss Graham alleges that Stokes "turned on me in a perfect fury and caught me by the throat and began to choke me." Miss Graham then alleges that, fearing violence at his hands, she shot at him. The actress says that Stokes wrenched the pistol from her and shot at her. Miss Graham says nothing about the charge made by Stokes's counsel that Miss Conrad fired a shot.

Stokes says he met Miss Graham and her sister, Mrs. John Singleton of Los Angeles, some time ago here. He only knew Miss Conrad slightly.

In a supplemental statement today in which he said that Mr. Stokes would prosecute the two young women, Mr. McManus added that Stokes had received a message from Miss Conrad telling him that if he wanted the letters he had written Miss Graham he might come and get them. "While Mr. Stokes did not remember writing any letters, and certainly no compromising ones," continued McManus, "he thought that as he had been married recently he would better collect any letttera to other women. Anybody who knows Mr. Stokes would realize very well that he could not be intimidated at the point of a pistol. He has the nerve of seven men and has been threatened with death too many times to be scared by a woman with a gun."

After the girls and the Japanese servants had been "lined up with the numerous other arrests at police headquarters they were transferred to the West Side police court. As they left headquarters they were hooted and jeered by a crowd of more than 500 who had gathered to get a glimpse. It was said that Mr. Stokes would not be able to appear in court for about ten days. In court the two women were held without bail for examination next Monday and the three Japanese servants were discharged but they will be called as witnesses when required.

In their statements to Inspector Russel of the central office, each of the girls insisted that she alone had done the shooting, but they agreed that Stokes had come to the apartment in a rage and that in his fury he had attempted to shake Miss Graham before the shots were fired.

POLICE OFFICIAL TESTIFIES.

VITERBO, Italy, June 8.—Simonetti, a police official, was called as a witness today in the trial of the Camorrists for the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife, to tell what he knew of the criminal organization. The witness said the "Classical" Camorra no longer exists. The Camorrists of the day he described as simply groups of criminals who blackmailed thieves, getting from the latter stolen goods for next to nothing. They also exercised usury. He denied that Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, was a member of the Camorra. The witness admitted that Enrico Alfano was at the head of these criminal gangs.

MEXICAN TOWNS SUFFER SEVERELY.

Colima Volcano Set Into Action by Earthquakes.

A Relief Train Sent to Towns of Tonila and San Andres.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, June 8.—The volcano Colima became active yesterday, when the earthquake shocks were felt and today is emitting smoke and lava. The town of Tonila and San Andres were badly damaged by the disturbance, portions of them being destroyed. A relief train has been sent to the scene from here.

Despatches from Tuxpan, a few miles east of the volcano Colima in the southern part of the state of Jalisco, say that Vapotlan suffered severely from yesterday's earthquakes. The number of victims is said to be large. A church and a number of houses were thrown down and other dwelling places rendered unsafe. Thousands of persons are homeless.

IN WIDELY DIFFERENT PARTS.

Two Earthquakes Recorded at Santa Clara College Yesterday.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 8.—Two earthquakes in widely different parts of the world were recorded at Santa Clara College yesterday, according to the statement of Father Richard. A microscopic examination revealed a compound record. Nearly all of the oscillations, both large and small, were interwoven, indicating that when a big shock was occurring in one place, ther was a smaller one in another. The epicentrum of the larger earthquake was a smaller one in another 1,000 miles long, drawn from here to the southernmost part of the Aleutian archipelago, while the smaller centre was in the Pacific ocean, opposite the city of Mexico.

NOT RECORDED AT HARVARD.

Earthquake Shocks Registered at Potsdam Not Noted at Cambridge.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 8.—No record of the severe earthquake noted by the seismograph at the Potsdam observatory, and believed to be in the neighborhood of the Caspian sea, was made by the seismograph at Harvard University, Professor J. B. Woodworth, Harvard authority on earthquakes, was interested in the report received today from San Jose, Cal., saying the instruments at Santa Clara College yesterday recorded two earthquake shocks, of which the Mexico city tremor was the lesser in intensity. Professor Woodworth explained that it is quite common for one earth shock to cause a seismic disturbance in some part of the world far distant from the point of origin of the first disturbance and as an illustration he cited the case of the earthquake which caused great damage at Valparaiso, Chili, a few years ago. Coincident with the Valparaiso disturbance was a heavy shock in the Aleutian Islands.

An interesting theory of the cause of the earthshock noted in the past few days was suggested by Professor Woodworth. Last night the moon and the planet Jupiter were in conjunction, thus exerting unusual strain upon the earth. The Mexican shock was only 14 hours in advance of the conjunction of the great planet and the earth's satellite, while the shock recorded at Potsdam was even nearer the hour of conjunction.

IN VICINITY OF CASPIAN SEA.

Seismograph at Potsdam Records a Catastrophal Earthquake.

POTSDAM, June 8.—The seismograph at the observatory here registered a catastrophal earthquake in the neighborhood of the Caspian sea, at 1:04 o'clock this morning.

REFUSED ASYLUM AT PENIKES.

The Leprous Pawtucket Boy to be Placed on the City Farm.

PAWTUCKET, June 8.—Harry Sheridan, the boy leper of this city, will be placed in an abandoned pesthouse on the city farm. This was decided upon today by the newly-formed board of health, after unsuccessful efforts had been made to have him admitted to Penikes island, the Massachusetts leper colony, or some other institution and the decision means the establishment of a leper colony in this city. The house in which the afflicted boy will probably pass the remander of his life was used as a detention hospital for small pox cases several years ago, but has been empty for a long time. The details regarding his isolation have not as yet been agreed upon.

The case of leprosy was first discovered May 6, when the school which the boy had attended was closed and fumigated and Sheridan was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital at Boston. From there the boy was spirited away in the night to his home here. Since that time the officials of the state and city have been trying to have him admitted to Penikes, but the Massachusetts authorities refused to grant him asylum there.

BIXC, France, June 8.—Aviator Averigo flew from Orleans to this place today in 55 minutes, (distance approximately is 85 miles). He traveled at a height of 7,500 feet in a northeast wind, having a velocity of 30 miles an hour.

ROOT AMENDMENT GOES WITH BILL.

All Other Changes Defeated by the Committee.

Reciprocity Act to be Reported Without Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Canadian reciprocity bill was acted upon today by the Senate finance committee and will be reported Tuesday without recommendation. The Root amendment to the print paper and wood pulp provision was adopted by the committee by a vote of 8 to 6.

The committee met in executive session and promptly voted on amendments. The first modification offered was by Senator Nelson of Minnesota, which would have reduced instead of removed duties on livestock and farm products. This was defeated without a roll-call.

The same fate was meted out to the House free list bill. This provision was offered by Senator Bailey and received only his vote and those of Mr. Simmons and Mr. Kern.

An amendment by Mr. Simmons, to include flour and meats in the free list, also was voted down.

The Root amendment, requiring the admission of American wood pulp and paper into Canada free of duty, then was voted into the bill without discussion, the affirmative votes being cast by Senators Lodge, Smoot, Gallinger, Clark of Wyoming, Heyburn, La Follette, Bailey and Simmons, and the negatives by Messrs. Penrose, Cullom and McCumber (Republicans), and Stone, Kern and Williams (Democrats).

On a motion for a favorable report the vote stood 6 to 8, and on the succeeding motion for an unfavorable report there was a tie of 7 to 7. The same result at first followed a motion for a report without recommendation, but Senators Gallinger, Bailey and Simmons, who at first cast their ballots in the negative, ultimately changed and thus allowed the bill to go to the Senate without recommendation, by a vote of 10 to 4. Senator Johnson of Maine was absent.

Senator Williams of Mississippi then moved that Chairman Penrose be authorized to report the bill at today's session, but the motion received only the votes of Messrs. Williams, Stone and Kern.

Several minority reports are expected, and as it was desired that they should be presented with the majority report it was decided to postpone until Tuesday the presentation of any of them.

ATTAINED PRODIGIOUS SPEED.

PARIS, June 8.—L'Auto estimates that Vaderine, the winner of the Paris-to-Madrid race, whose proper name is Jules Vedrriner, attained the prodigious speed of 156 miles an hour Tuesday, covering the 775-10 miles separating Dijon and Saint Laurent Le Macon in 30 minutes. The paper quotes the aviator as saying that he was pushed by a wind so violent that at times he flew with the tail of his air machine perpendicular. He also encountered wind pockets that caused his monoplane to make frightful drops, sometimes descending 900 feet in a few seconds. Vedrine suffered only through the strain on his eyes.

AVERTED A PANIC.

Gary Commends Roosevelt for Tennessee Company Act.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The refusal of Theodore Roosevelt, while President, to interfere with the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company b ythe Steel Trust was declared today by Judge Elbert H. Gary, the executive head of the United States Steel Corporation, to have been an act of great "constructive statesmanship." The steel magnate asserted that a panic, the extent of which no man could foresee, was averted by the deal.

Judge Gary, as a witness before the House committee of inquiry, gave a version of the formation of the Steel Trust which flatly contradicted the testimony of John W. Gates that threats by Andrew Carnegie to build rival railroads and tube works induced J. Pierpont Morgan to institute negotiations culminating in the gigantic steel combination.

Mr. Gary said also that if former President Roosevelt had not approved the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by th Steel Trust he himself never would have voted to consummate that deal.

Mr. Gary discussed the financial panic of 1907, when the Tennessee company was taken over to avert the failure of the New York brokerage firm of Moore & Schley and consequent disastrous results in the banking world. "You have no idea," he said, "of the financial frenzy which possessed New York in that panic. It would have been very easy for that panic to have gone beyond all bounds and affected the entire country. Every night during that time 40 or 50 leading bankers of New York were gathered in J. Pierpont Morgan's library discussing the grievous situation, striving as best they could to give support to the weaker banks and prevent a spread of the panic. From day to day these men did not know what bank would next be attacked by a run of depositors."

SENATOR STEPHENSON ACCUSED

MADISON, Wis., June 7.—The senate today, by a vote of 16 to 3, adopted a joint resolution calling on the United States Senate to investigate the election of United States Senator Isaac C. Stephenson. The election, according to the report by a special investigating committee, was brought about by irregular means, acts of bribery and attempted bribery.

NOTABLE MEN HONORED.

Columbia Celebrates Her One Hundred and Fifty-Seventh Commencement.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Columbia University celebrated her one hundred and fifty-seventh annual commencement today and conferred honorary degrees upon a number of notable men. The degree of doctor of laws was received among others by Baron D'Estournelles de Constant of France, and Governor Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut. Other honorary degrees included the following:

Doctor of Sacred Theology: The Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts.

President Nicholas Murray Butler took for theme of his annual address to the graduates, "The Age of Irrationalism." "This term," he said, "may well apply to the present period. It may well be that we have confounded novelty with originality, and change with development. We are curiously under the influence of phrases and argument by epithet has come to take a high place in our ratiocination. University study should have taught that one of our main businesses in life is to form a habit of tracing facts, theories, projects and schemes back to controlling principles, as well as to gain that genuine historical point of view which makes the words development and progress aglow with lively meaning."

DR. HUNTINGTON TO RETIRE.

President Presides at His Last Boston University Commencement.

BOSTON, June 7.—The last Boston University commencement over which President William E. Huntington will preside was held in Tremont Temple today. Dr. Huntington retires at the close of the college year. Conspicuous among the large number of graduates who received degrees today were four women from the law school. Miss Mary A. Bradbury of Saco, Maine, was one of them and she was graduated with high honors. If she is successful in passing the bar examination, she intends entering practice with her father, who is a Saco attorney. The others were Cora L. Cudworth, Sadie M. Lipner and Charlotte A. Perkins, all of Greater Boston.

The temple was packed to the door with relatives and friends of the graduates, when Dewitt Clinton Huntington, chancellor emeritus of Nebraska Wesleyan University, offered the prayer. Hamilton Wright Mabie of New York made the address of the day.

WOMEN LOSE IN CONNECTICUT.

House Defeats Bill to Grant Suffrage in Municipal Elections.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 7.—Suffrage for women in municipal elections failed to pass the house today, [illegible] to 40. The vote was taken after two hours of lively debate and is in disagreement with the senate.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Middletown's first public strawberry supper was a decided success. It was given Wednesday evening by the members of Holy Cross Guild at the guild house, West Main road, and was largely attended. Supper was served continuously from 6 to 8 o'clock and included strawberries and cream, rolls and home-made bread, cake and coffee. Two crates of strawberries were used. A large delegation was present from Newport and there were also many other guests from out of town. The rooms and tables were decorated in yellow and purple lilies and daisies. About $30 was realized from the supper.

Mr. William G. Brown of Slocum is visiting relatives in town.

Wild strawberries by the roadside are plentiful and have been ripening the past week.

Prize Day exercises will be held at St. George's School Saturday.

STRANGLED BY HIGH COLLAR.

The coroner of Westchester county, N.Y., has determined that Frederick Beresford of Yonkers was choked to death by his high colar. Beresford fell asleep in his chair in a safe. His head dropped to one side and the stiff collar shout off the circulation. At first acute indigestion was blamed, but the coroner and doctor found the throat in a condition that indicated strangulation beyond a doubt.

COFFERDAM REMAINS INTACT.

Resumption of Pumping Will Bring Wreck of Battleship Maine From Under the Surface.

No further progress was made Wednesday on battleship Maine. The water remains at the five-foot level, but the disturbed condition within the cofferdam prevented an inspection of conditions under the surface.

After 24 hours, there is not the least suggestion of leakage or instability of the cofferdam, and the time intervening between the resumption of pumping will be devoted to filling the incomplete caisson and clearing away the wreckage incident to the progress of the work.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Mr. F. J. Gould of the Moral Education League of England, which has for its object the introduction of systematic moral and civic instruction in all the schools and to make the formation of character the chief aim in education, by invitation of Miss Sarah J. Miss Etta M. Sherman will attend the Sunday School convention to be held in San Francisco, leaving Tuesday June 13, with a party from Swansea. The trip covers 25 days and there will be numerous stop-offs to visit places of interest. During her absence Miss Hattie G. Anthony will take her place as librarian of the Portsmouth Public Library. Miss Anthony has had some experience, having taken charge during the absence of a former librarian.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Sisson, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Abner P. Anthony, and family on Quaker hill and her son, Mr. Borden L. Sisson, and family on Middle road, has returned to her home in Newport with her daughter, Mrs. Henry A. Curtis.

A pleasant party was given at the summer home of Mrs. Joseph Tilson at Stone Bridge by Miss Doris Tilson, her daughter, who entertained 12 girl friends from Friday until Sunday. The cottage was strung with Japanese lanterns on all sides. Motor-boating, rowing, whist and dancing formed a variety of amusement.

Miss Dorothy Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. William Smith, formerly of this town, has undergone an operation on the throat, at her home in Tiverton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nickerson have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George F. Grinnell, the latter the sister of Mrs. Nickerson.

The rain was welcomed by the farmers, as crops were suffering, and by almost every one, that the dust might be laid.

COX—PERKINS.

Miss Frances Bruen Perkins, daughter of the late Edward C. Perkins, was married to Mr. Archibald B. Cox, a lawyer of New York and Plainfield, at the home of her cousin, Miss Eliza C. Cleveland of Jamaica Plain, Wednesday, by Rev. Carroll Perry of Brookline. The bride, who was given away by her brother Mr. Edward N. Perkins, wore white satin enriched with old family lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. The best man was Mr. Robert Hill Cox, a brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. Cox is a graduate of Harvard. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Charles C. Perkins, a patron of music and art in Boston 40 years ago, who was largely instrumental in the founding of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Mrs. Perkins, her grandmother, died at her summer residence here a little more than a year ago.

SAVE THE HAIR

Newbro's Herpicide Will Do It

No woman should have poor, thin, scraggy hair, and no man need become bald. Poor hair and final baldness are due to the dandruff germ.

Newbro's Herpicide will destroy this little germ and stop the hair from falling. Further evidence of this is found in a letter from Mrs. F. Neilsen, of Tomah, Wis. She says: "I fought the worst kind of dandruff for nine years. I have been using Herpicide now one week, and my scalp is healthy, the dandruff has gone and the itching has stopped. It is the best remedy for scalp diseases I ever saw, and I have seen many."

Don't subject yourself to disappointment and expense by accepting something claimed to be "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. These off brands may possibly be good, but why take chances? The genuine and original dandruff germ destroyer can always be obtained. If your own druggist has nothing but "just as good" articles, go John M. Callahan who will furnish you with Newbro's Herpicide and guarantees one dollar size bottles. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Send 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

WAS NOT ABLE TO SPEAK.

Proud Grandfather in New York Sends Long Distance Call to Child Three Hours Old.

[New York Sun.]

There probably has never been a more surprised string of long-distance telephone operators than those from here to Milwaukee the other day when they were through handling a call put in by a man who loves to do unusual things. Mr. Stillwell, as he may be called, woke up one morning in New York to find a telegram from his son-in-law in Milwaukee saying that a granddaughter had just arrived. The son-in-law's name may be given as McLaughlin.

Mr. Stillwell went to the telephone and asked for long distance.

"I want to put in a call for Milwaukee," said he when the operator had responded; "I want to speak to Miss McLaughlin at 2342—street."

The operator repeated the name and address and then asked for the first name of the person called.

"I can't give you that," said Mr. Stillwell, "but if you call for Miss McLaughlin that will be enough. But don't forget, I don't want to speak to any one but Miss McLaughlin." He hung up the receiver and went back to his breakfast.

In a few minutes the bell whirred and Mr. Stillwell went to the 'phone in some excitement.

"Miss McLaughlin can't speak," was the message that came from the operator. "I can get Mr. McLaughlin if he will do."

"No, he won't do at all," said Mr. Stillwell with every evidence of exasperation. "Please be kind enough to find out when Miss McLaughlin will be able to speak."

He held the receiver to his ear this time and heard a wrangling afar off, a clicking of instruments and a murmur of indistinct voices. At last the answer came. It was:

"Two years."

Meanwhile, as Mr. Stillwell found out later, his son-in-law had been having a terrible time. There was enough going on in that house in Milwaukee anyway that morning, and when the 'phone bell rang the head of the household wasn't any too gentle about the way he growled, "Well, what is it?" Then he heard that New York was calling by long distance and thinking that his wife's family had chosen this way of sending its congratulations he calmed down a little. But when the operator said that Miss McLaughlin was wanted he hit the ceiling again.

"You mean Mrs. McLaughlin," said he. "Well, she can't come to the 'phone just now, but this is Mr. McLaughlin and—well, I guess somebody else will have to do since there isn't any Miss McLaugh—hold on there a minute, of course there is a Miss McLaughlin," as a light dawned upon him.

"I guess the party in New York knew who he was calling," said the operator. "Get Miss McLaughlin to the 'phone and don't waste any time. The party is waiting."

"Tell that party in New York," said the son-in-law, who was enjoying himself by this time, "that Miss McLaughlin can't speak." Then he sat down beside the 'phone and waited. The next time the bell rang the operator repeated Mr. Stillwell's query on the subject of how soon Miss McLaughlin would be able to speak.

"Tell him two years," said the young father.

"Now, don't get fresh," snapped the operator. "There's a man waiting to get a sensible answer in New York and I ain't going to give him any such fool remark as that. Are you going to get Miss McLaughlin to the 'phone?"

"I certainly am not," said the son-in-law.

"Why not?"

"Because, my dear young lady," was the deliberate answer, "Miss McLaughlin is exactly three hours old!"

The operator's only retort was a crack in the receiver that nearly broke his ear drum.

TO ENFORCE TENNIS RULES.

National Association Officers Will Exact Penalties Against Offenders This Season.

Officials of the National Lawn Tennis Association have made the first movement toward a more strict enforcement of the rules. The absence of proper umpires and linesmen for matches, failure to observe foot faults and other matters are being pointedly brought to the attention of the clubs. It is hinted that penalties will be exacted against offenders, as the rules must be observed, thereby doing away with the adverse criticism which slipshod management has brought down upon the association in the past.

It is especially insisted that the draw be made according to the "blind" system—the names being listed as they are drawn haphazard—and that any infraction will render a club likely to lose the tournament another year. Furthermore, that names must not be substituted after the draw is once made.

The question of foot fault observance, so as to prevent the server from running into court, also is outlined. No movement that can be construed as a step toward the net is to be allowed. The American tendency to run in is to be checked, for in previous international matches for the Davis cup the Englishmen and other foreign players have complained bitterly of this American tendency.

TROOPS IN MEXICO RE-CALLED.

Breaking Up of United States Forces an Evidence That Taft Considers Peace Restored.

A Washington despatch says: As evidence of President Taft's belief that peace has been practically restored in Mexico, with a stable government capable of coping with the situation, the withdrawal by degrees of the armed forces of the United States from the region of Mexico was begun Wednesday. The warships which have rendezvoused at Guantanamo and San Diego since last March will not be withdrawn at this time, although even that question is under consideration. General Carter's manoeuvre division now centred at San Antonio soon will be broken up into small points in Texas. The troops, however, will be so located that they can speedily be assembled on short notice for general manoeuvres, and the manoeuvre division itself will be kept intact.

The first order was to the 2,000 marines at Guantanamo, Cuba, who will return to their home stations and ships. This will be followed soon by the northward movement of the provisional brigades at Galveston, Texas, and San Diego, Cal.

OTHER FASHIONS.

[Washington Star.]

"I understand that the queen will not allow us to wear hobble skirts at the coronation," remarked the doleful duchess.

"Let her beware!" replied the leader of fashion. "If she goes too far, I shall issue a bulletin calling attention to the fact that crowns are going out of style."

STARTED BY OBDURATE TRIBES.

Japanese Force in Formosa Annihilated by Rebels May 6.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 8.—News was brought by steamer Kamakura Maru yesterday of the annihilation, May 8, of a Japanese force in Formosa by the rebels, against whom the Japanese have been campaigning for the last three years. It seems that three tribes which made peace were incited to fresh rebellion by two tribes which remained obdurate. Forty men of a force sent against the Formosans were ambushed, and after fierce fighting but ten escaped. The dead were mutilated, their heads being carried off by the head hunters. Inspector Ikemote, who commanded the party, was found with his head missing and a broken sword hilt clutched in his hand.

DROWNED IN THE POTOMAC.

Three West Virginia Boys Thrown Into River by Breaking of Board.

PIEDMONT W. Va., June 8.—Harry and Donald Albright, aged five and ten years, only children of Dow Albright of this place, and Clement Ott, aged eight, of Grafton, W. Va., who was visiting relatives here, were drowned in the Potomac river last night. The boys, with several companions, were thrown into the river by the breaking of a board, against which they were resting. The water is high and swift and it may be weeks before the bodies are found. Search is being made as far as five miles down the river.

VALUABLE PATTERNS SAFE.

Fire Occurs at the Looke Regulator Company's Building in Salem.

SALEM, Mass., June 8.—Early examinations of the storeroom of the Looke Regulator Company's main building, which was damaged by fire shortly after midnight, showed that many of the valuable patterns were not reached by the flames. The damage, which, was mostly from water, is estimated at less than $10,000. The prompt action of the fire chief in calling out the entire fire apparatus of the city saved the large store of wooden patterns of the company, which were valued at $50,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The annual meeting of the Congregational Home Missionary Society opened here last night, with an address of welcome by Rev. Charles F. Aked, to the delegates who represent 6,000 Congregational churches in the United States.

A MODEL FARM VISITED.

Delegates to Hotelmen's Association Make Trip to New Boston, N. H.

BOSTON, June 8.—The delegates to the National Hotelmen's Mutual Benefit Association took a train up to New Boston, N. H., today, to spend the day on a model New England farm. J. Reed Whipple had an elaborate luncheon served in his great barn.

SNAP SHOTS FROM BOSTON TRANSCRIPT.

The man who kills time wastes ammunition.

Make friends, but don't expect your friends to make you.

Those who talk without thinking make those who think without talking very tired.

If opportunities were feminine and pretty, we'd be more ready to embrace them.

Sometimes love flies out of the window when poverty doesn't enter the house at all.

Love is the greatest thing in the world, and yet nine people out of ten are after money.

PERSONALS.

....It is announced that the German emperor will give a cup for one of the contests in the international yacht races to be held at Spithead in August.

....Because he was unfamiliar with the rule requiring applicants to register when they begin their study for law, Robert Alphonse Taft, son of President Taft, was denied the privilege of taking the Ohio state bar examination. He probably will take the examination two years hence.

....As an example to the army, Secretary of War Stimson has been vaccinated against typhoid fever. While anti-typhoid vaccination is earnestly advocated by the War Department to the entire personnel of the army, it is not compulsory except in the manoeuvre division at San Antonio, Tex.

....The priest Paoluccl, mayor of Gorlano Abruzzi, who was enthusiastically cheered for taking part in the dedication of the monument to King Victor Emmanuel II, has attended the garden party given at the Quirinal by the king in honor of the 8,000 mayors now in Rome. Paoluccl is the first ecclesiastic to attend an official ceremony at the Quirinal since 1870.

....Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, has accepted an invitation extended by Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston to deliver the Fourth of July oration in Faneuil Hall. These exercises were instituted in 1771 to commemorate the Boston Massacre, which had occurred March 5 of the preceding year. From that time to this they had been held every year, the change from March 5 to July 4 having been made in 1783.

....Frederick Sturges, of Fairfield, Conn., brother-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, recently received news of the birth of a grandson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sturges, Jr., of Philadelphia. The date coincided with Mr. Sturges's own birthday anniversary, and he was so pleased that he wrote a check for $100,000 as a natal gift for his grandson. The new arrival is to be named Frederick Sturges, 3d. It is understood that the check will be registered in the baby's name when the christening takes place.

A COUNTRY ROAD.

[August Lane, in National Magazine.]

Wanders the old road, on and on;
Stopping here at a wayside pool,
Hid in the shadows, clear and cool;
Running there to a wild cliff's base,
Rising weird, in some lonely place.
Tr'ning sharply, and looking back
Over its wayward, winsome track,
Then hurrying forward, with beckoning hand,
Down through the pleasant summer land,
And he who follows it, as it winds
In and out, for many a mile,
Draws near to summer's heart; and finds
Beauty waiting by every stile.
Skies of June are o'erhead, and around
Countless blossoms; the silvery sound
Of running water; a liquid note
From many a song-bird's tuneful throat.
And over, and throughout it all,
The tender rush of a "perfect day,"
That rippling water and song-bird's call
Deepen, but never take away.

PLANS SAVING OF $250,000.

Stimson Proposes to Reduce Divisional Headquarters of Army From Five to Three.

A saving of about $250,000 annually and a gain in general efficiency are the expected results of the proposed reduction from five to three in the number of divisional headquarters in the army, not including the Philippines, as reported to the Senate, by Secretary of War Stimson. The restoration to the line of 35 officers and a number of enlisted men now doing administrative work at various headquarters will be the most important benefit, said Mr. Stimson. New York, Chicago and San Francisco will be the new divisional headquarters in this country, with Manila remaining for the Philippine division.

Tired all the time;
Weary and worn out night and day;
Back aches; head aches.
All on account of the kidneys.
You must help them at their work.
A Newport citizen shows you how.

Mrs. A. P. Frbeborn, 16 Caleb Earl St., Newport, R. I., says: "I was distressed almost constantly by backache and often it seemed as if my back were going to break. I felt worse in the morning when I arose, and during the day I was all tired out. I could hardly get up or down stairs on account of the misery in my back. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Wright & Hay's Drug Store, acted like magic and the use of two boxes did me a great amount of good. The backache was relieved, my kidneys were strengthened, and there was a noticeable improvement in my health. Nothing affords me greater pleasure than to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."

PRISON PROFIT-SHARING.

Rhode Island prisoners have received their first payment for work for the state. The profit-sharing system inaugurated a few months ago by Warden McCusker has already demonstrated its value, though in a small way as yet. Within a few days several men have been released at the expiration of their sentences and have taken with them money which they have earned from the state as a nucleus for a new start outside the walls of the jail. Naturally these amounts have been small, as the system has been in operation only three months, but the cases of these short-term prisoners have shown that the plan is admirable in giving those who have been serving sentences of imprisonment the means to begin an honorable and useful life after they leave the institution. These men who have received the first fruits of the system look with them as their share of the profits of their work during the three months five or six dollars each, in addition to the amount always given every prisoner when he completes his term.

It will be seen from this statement that when prisoners end their sentences of a year or several years the amount which they will receive as their share of the results of their labor during the time they have been in jail will be of considerable size, sufficient to maintain them comfortably while they are securing a new foothold in the world or even to start in business in a small way if they are so inclined. What this will mean to those men as a bulwark of moral defense only those can know who realize how hard it is for a man who has been in jail to find work and how easy it is to go back to the old life of crime when there are no resources on which to live while looking for work and nothing with which to gain a new start. This is one of the most humane projects ever inaugurated in connection with penal institutions and Rhode Island ought to be pleased that it is within its borders and by its prison official that it has been established. Warden McCusker has shown not only his humanity but his knowledge of the conditions in penal institutions by this plan for the benefit of the prisoners.

THE STEEL TRUST'S PROFITS AND WAGES.

In some respects it is no concern of the public whether or not a railroad or an industrial concern is over-capitalized, but when the amount of capital is offered as a reason for higher charges by the railroads, or as a reason for lower wages by the Steel Corporation, it does become some of the public's business to know whether the capitalization is real or ficitious.

In the capitalization of the Steel Corporation a good part of the bonded debt is watered; that is, Mr. Carnegie received in bonds a great deal more than the value of his steel properties. The Steel Corporation has given that mortgage, however, and must pay interest or default. Therefore it is practically without option in the matter of interest. All or the greater part of its common stock; afterwards dividends bonus and the preferred stock represent all, and probably more than all, the assets of the concerns which were merged. Whatever the common stock would bring was just so much "velvet" for the owners who put their properties into the combination. For a time dividends were not paid on the common stock; afterwards dividends were paid at a low rate, and lately they have been five per cent and a sum as large as the common stock dividends or larger has been added to surplus and invested in buying coal or ore lands, erecting mills and renewing machinery.

Mr. Gary's intimation that the cutting of steel prices may necessitate a cutting of wages would therefore appear superfluous. After the corporation has paid its interest and its dividends it has, say, $50,000,000 of net profits, of which it will divide one half and put the other half into the business. The latter will enable the stockholders to receive further dividends on investments paid for by the consumers and not by them. It would seem therefore as if the Steel Corporation might defer reducing wages until its profits had fallen to a point where it could not pay interest and dividends on the actual investment. It would be more equitable to discontinue the common dividends than to reduce the pay of the men.

YOUNG PATRONS OF POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

One of the most interesting features of the postal savings bank system inaugurated in this country a few months ago, which has proved so successful that it is to be extended rapidly, is that it appeals strongly to children. Everywhere it has been established it has been found that the young immediately use it as a means of saving, and that they take pride in their postal bank accounts and are eager to add to them instead of spending their money for candy and toys. Another class which is fast learning to profit by this opportunity to save money in small amounts is the newsboys, who in every place where one of these banks has been opened take advantage of it and put their small savings in it with satisfaction and pride. It was not perhaps realized by those who advocated postal savings banks that these features of their operation would be so marked as they are, but it is a matter of much satisfaction that the institution should appeal so strongly to the children and the newsboys.

This country is often criticised because the people do not practice the good old virtues of thrift and economy. But the success which has attended the opening of these postal savings banks has demonstrated that there is likely to be a change in this respect and that coming generations may be more inclined to the exercise of those principles than preceding ones have been. The saving of small amounts in youth is an excellent means of inculcating lessons of economy and thrift and those lessons learned early will be useful all through life. It is one of the best features of this new plan for saving, therefore, that the children are adopting it so generally and are putting away their small earnings where they can be ready for use when needed. It is no slight thing for a child to possess a bank account, though it be a little one, and this system not only makes that possible but also provides that a child may, if he wishes, exchange his savings in these banks for government bonds. Children who own these bonds will rarely be anything but good citizens and will not fail to be interested in the government of the nation.

COOKS ARE TOO VALUABLE.

Clara Ferguson is a colored woman who cooks for the fortunate Mrs. Cole of New York, and incidentally, under the nefarious influence of a man of her own race, a man after her own heart and after all the things she could gather up for him, had stolen $200 worth of jewelry from her employer. When she was arraigned for trial Mrs. Cole made a plea for her which moved the court. "This woman is such a very good cook, your honor," she said, "and good cooks are so scarce that it would really be a shame to send her to the penitentiary."

Of course many persons could not afford the luxury of a cook liable to appropriate a couple of hundred dollars' worth of jewelry from time to time, but poor people cannot afford luxuries of any sort and are obliged to do their own cooking or employ a poor cook. People who can have a jewel of a cook by parting with some of their other jewels are quite likely to do it and the court recognized the cogency of Mrs. Cole's plea that a really good cook ought not to be locked up in the penitentiary by promising to suspend sentence. Why, she would probably be assigned to the prison kitchen for work and the convicts would have the benefit of her talents as an artist of the range. That would defeat the purposes of punishment for all the others. Men would commit crime for the sake of being sent to the prison where Clara Ferguson did the cooking.

Besides, Clara thinks she can keep her hands off jewelry hereafter. The man to whom she was devoted not only promptly let her to steal but she said: "Ah also had two gold teeth and he said I had better take them out and give them to him so the police wouldn't recognize me. That was the last Ah ever seen of them teeth." Losing her gold ones has cut her wisdom teeth for her and she is quite sure that the malign influence of the man who could steal even her dental gold will no longer be potent with her. So she is likely to continue to bless the world with appetizing food and we hope she will replace her gold teeth and never take any more of her mistress's jewels to give to her "gentleman friend."

Colonel Goethals, chief engineer and chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, thinks danger for the United States in time of war might exist in private ownership of land along the great waterway and suggests that the government purchase every acre of land within the Canal Zone. "Such ownership," he says, "would assure our having none but friends within the zone in time of war. The canal is a war measure; you cannot escape that fact."

The republic of Portugal needs only the adoption of a constitution to receive recognition by other nations of the world. Great Britain and the United States have instructed their representatives to accord official recognition immediately upon the adoption of a constitution by the constituent assembly and other nations will follow the example.

The army of pacification on the Mexican border, which will soon be broken up, has engaged in no actual warfare, but undoubtedly its experience has been of great benefit to the officers and soldiers. It was a good deal like going to war.

The prospects for the ratification of the Canadian reciprocity agreement are apparently improving every day. It will be carried through, if at all, almost entirely by the personal work of President Taft.

THE NORMAN MILLENIARY.

[New York Tribune.]

The celebrations of next month at Caen and Rouen should not be overlooked among the more imposing ceremonials at Westminster and elsewhere, for they are not only of immense historical and ethnological interest, but also of singular suitability to the present time and to existing circumstances and tendencies in Europe.

They are to commemmorate the one thousandth anniversary of the permanent establishment of the Scandinavian race in France and therefore of an ethnic migration and settlement which, while not so numerous nor so spectacular as some other such movements, ranks probably second to none in its profound significance for the modern world.

For centuries before the year 911 the Norsemen—Norwegians, Danes, Swedes—had made incursions upon the coasts of western Europe, and in the British Isles they had even gained a seemingly permanent footing. But in that year Charles the Simple of France gave up hope of excluding them by force and wearied of bribing them with rich subsidies to go away, and therefore in the Treaty of St. Clair-sur-Epte he granted to the Norse chieftain, Rollo, the rich province which has since been known as Normandy, and later gave him also his daughter in marriage. A large part of the Norsemen quickly adopted the French language and customs and became in a measure Gallicized. But they exerted in essential respects a greater influence upon the French than the French exerted upon them. In the Varangian Guard and in other capacities they made important marks upon the map and in the history of Europe, while their leader's conquest of England made a great epoch in the history of the world.

In the coming celebrations there will be a reminder of the ethnological community, or at least the close relations, of three peoples which are too commonly thought of as quite separate. Caen and Rouen suggest indissoluble links between the Scandinavians and the French, and also between the Scandinavians and the Anglo-Saxons and between Great Britain and France. It is highly appropriate that the time when the latter two nations are drawn and are still drawing so close together they should be reminded of their common debt to that fierce and sometime piratical northern people whose adventurers and conquerors so profoundly influenced them 1,000 years ago and to so great a degree directed all their subsequent course. France would not be France today had it not been for Duke Rollo, and England would not be England had it not been for Duke William. Both these great nations may therefore regard with much interest and no little gratitude the event which the festivities of Caen and Rouen will recall.

CARDINAL GIBBONS.

[Boston Transcript.]

In whatever relation of life destiny might have placed him Cardinal Gibbons would have been a man instinctively honored and beloved by his generation. He would have been a great judge or a spotless statesman, but perhaps in no position could his characteristics have been more admirably displayed than in the one that he occupies. As a prince of the church his authority is the highest in the country. Even before he was advanced to his present dignity that could have been said of him, because Baltimore, of which he was previously archbishop, was the oldest and therefore the primary American see, it is a further distinction in connection with his elevation to this present exalted position, that it was made by that astute and broad-minded head of the church, Pope Leo XIII, who said to those who were to bear to him his official insignia: "We remember him with sentiments of the most cordial esteem and believe we could not confer the hat upon a more worthy prelate."

But it was as a great American citizen that he was the recipient upon this occasion of distinguishing honor and enthusiastic eulogy. Like the late Archbishop Williams of our own city, he has been a powerful force for patriotism and pure public service. His vision of the evils that threaten us has been clear, and he has been fearless and outspoken in dealing with them. There is no more loyal lover of his country than he, none more jealous of everything that would tarnish its honor of weaken its fundamental institutions.

AMERICAN WASTE.

[Will Irwin in the Century.]

As the apostles of scientific management have shown us, we Americans have wasted foolishly in the individual processes of our industry. In the whole body of our industry we have often wasted, not only foolishly, but cruelly, and nowhere more cruelly than in the matter of provision for the wreckage of industry, the killed and wounded in our industrial warfare.

Nearly every year, perils inevitable to an age of industry kill their thousands, and maim their tens of thousands. The railroads alone return an unusual list of killed and wounded employes which match well with real warfare. We have recognized dimly that either society or the industry in question owes to this wreckage some form of support for crippled, impotent years, or for a new generation of unprotected survivors.

But we are struggling along on a system of compensation for industrial accidents which is a relic of the old hand-labor days, a nd which has worked out into a tangle of law, highly expensive, incredibly complicated, and decidedly unjust. All the so-called progressive nations entered the era of specialized labor and machine production with legal principles similar to ours; all but the United States have either amended them or changed them utterly to fit the necessities of the new age.

Providence Masons to Receive Traveling Triangle—Woonsocket's Poor Children's Excursion.

The election of town officers in Cumberland Wednesday resulted in a victory for every candidate on the Democratic ticket, by majorities ranging from 113 to 321. For the first time in many years, Cyrus Taft, who has held the office of town treasurer, as the nominee of the Republicans, was opposed in the contest and defeated by John C. Sullivan. From the time the caucus of the Democratic party was held there was no doubt as to the result, the only thought being to the size of the majorities which would be given each of the candidates of that party. The election was conducted in a quiet manner and the vote was considered of normal size, the greater part of the electors going to the polls during the last few hours of the afternoon.

Providence Royal Arch Chapter, No. 1, is to have the honor, given to one Masonic chapter only in each grand jurisdiction, of becoming the custodian of the Traveling Triangle, now on its journey around the world. The ceremonies incident to the delivering of this symbol will take place at a regular convocation next Thursday evening. At that time the members and officers of St. Paul's Chapter of Boston will deliver the Triangle to the Providence chapter. The guests on arrival will be escorted to Masonic Temple, where a dinner will be held in their honor. Following the dinner the Traveling Triangle will be presented and then there will be an entertainment in the lodge room, at the close of which a buffet luncheon will be served in the banquet hall. The idea of the Triangle originated in St. Patrick's Chapter of Toronto, Ontario, and its object is to bind together in closer companionship the Royal Arch Masons of the world.

The request made by Mayor Rattey of Woonsocket that a committee be appointed from the members of the city council to arrange for a poor children's excursion is likely to be attended with different results than were anticipated by the councilmen at the time the request was made. According to the mayor, there was no intention on his part to have the affair cost the city anything directly, but he merely asked to have a committee appointed to act in conjunction with the overseer of the poor, in order to give added prestige to the matter. It has been discussed since in every section of the city, and there is little doubt that the day's outing for the children will be held this year, whether the committe of city officials is appointed or not. The mayor has been warmly commended for the stand he has taken on the matter, and when the subject is brought up for consideration at the next meeting of the common council it has been suggested that, if unfavorable action is taken on the request, a committee of citizens be appointed, whether they are officials of the city or not, in order to carry the plans through.

Guy Metcalf, a well known young lawyer of Providence, died Wednesday at Hyannisport, Mass., where he had spent the summers for the past two years. Mr. Metcalf had been in poor health for some time and had been spending recent winters in the South. He was in his thirty-eighth year. For several years previous to leaving he practiced law in Providence, having been associated with Judge Howard T. Metcalf and with Green, Hinckley & Allen. He also had an office of his own, which he retained until his death. Guy Metcalf was the son of the late Alfred and of Rosa C. M. Metcalf and his mother is now living in Providence. He was born in that city November 19, 1873, and after attending the public schools, was graduated from Harvard in 1894, with the degree of A. B., and with honors. Mr. Metcalf was admitted to the bar in Rhode Island and also to practice in the United States court. He was a member of the Hope Club, the University Club, the Agawam Hunt, the Harvard Club and several other organizations.

The work of dredging near the wharf of the New England Navigation Company at Providence, to permit the Fabre liner Madonna to dock there on her next call at that port, is progressing rapidly. The necessary depth to permit the big ocean liner to moor at the wharf will be reached a day or so before her expected arrival, the work having been rushed as rapidly as possible during the past few weeks. The city is dredging to adopth of 25 feet. This will afford sufficient depth for the big ocean steamship to make her landing at the wharf without "smelling mud," as she did on her first call on the opening of the trans-Atlantic service from that port.

The Third division, Rhode Island Boy Scouts, which is to consist of several troops of colored boys, was formed at the Providence Boys' Club Wednesday evening by the scout commissioner and Committeemen McDonnell and Callender. There was a large attendance of prospective scouts who listened to talks by the county officers and watched a drill by the entire uniformed membership of Troop Five, under Scoutmaster John Kelley. The First troop of the Third division, which is to be known officially as Providence, No. 20, will be fully organized and recruited next Tuesday.

Chairman William H. Luther of the Providence police commission will sail from Boston Saturday on an extended European tour. He is in somewhat indifferent health at present on account of close application to business and public duties, and although not seriously ill, feels the need of complete relaxation. Mr. Luther and his physician will sail from Boston to the Mediterranean and go from Italy across the Alps. After visits to Paris, London and surrounding territory, they will sail for home from Southampton. It will be Mr. Luther's first European trip.

In a rescript Presiding Justice Tanner of the superior court decided in favor of certain mutual insurance companies, on the petition of the Providence board of tax assessors to dismiss the petitions of the companies. A petition for relief from taxation was filed by each of several insurance concerns, contending that they were assessed on shares of stock held by them in various corporations, which property was exempt from taxation under the statute. The questions of law involved in the cases are of interest to persons or corporations holding shares of stock. Since the court denies the motion of the assessors to dismiss the petitions, they will probably come up later for further hearing upon their merits.

Inspector of Plumbing Reuben S. Bemis of Providence was elected second vice president of the New England Association of Plumbing Inspectors at the annual session held at Worcester, Mass., Wednesday. The most important action taken was the changing of the name from Massachusetts Association of Plumbing Inspectors to the title given, thus making it a New England organization.

NOT A CASE FOR NON-SUIT.

Judge Stearns Declines to Entertain Motion for Defendant.

Mrs. Donahue and Physicians Testify to Her Injuries in the Damage Suit.

Judge Stearns took his seat at 9:30 this morning in the superior court and the trial of Donahue vs. Titus Company proceeded; spare jurors being excused until 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Donahue answered a few questions, completing her evidence.

Dr. George D. Ramsay testified for plaintiff. Has practiced in New Orleans, New York city, the United States army and in Newport. Was called in consultation by Dr. Clarke about January 5, and plaintiff's case was turned over to him; he has treated her since. There was a general condition of neurasthenia. She was unable to raise her left arm; it was swollen; had excruciating pain if there was an attempt to lift it. All her spinal column was painful, if touched, especially the lower tip. "Reflexes" were exaggerated. Her left eye was almost entirely closed and the whole side of her face was drawn; the left side of her mouth and the muscles controlling the jaw seemed affected. She has had some internal troubles also. Her left hip and hip joint pained her. Her heart and lungs were normal.

After treatment, her arm could be partially raised; since then it has been worse. He had given electric treatment in all parts of the body, which has caused considerable improvement, as to headache, etc. That her nerves were affected was shown by the fact that she could take more current without complaining than a normal person can.

A very long hypothetical question, stating all the points in the physical history of plaintiff, was put to witness. Defendant desired an exception. The court asked what had been omitted and defendant had an opportunity to change it to suit himself. When all the suggestions had been complied with, defendant still desired an exception.

Witness said that in his opinion her condition is due to the fall she received, as described in the question. In his opinion she will never completely recover. In two years she may be able to do her household duties. He thinks her shoulder must have been dislocated, and she will continue to have trouble with it. He thought she suffered a sub-glenoid dislocation, from which one never fully recovered.

To Mr. Levy, in cross-examination, witness said he knows nothing of the history of the patient, before he came to the case, other than what he had been told by her and Dr. Clarke. Statements of the patient are not the only evidence of symptoms, and repeated examinations will reveal whether a patient is telling the exact truth. He took pins in Mrs. Donahue on a number of different occasions, and found no sensation at these points. As to the parts where there was extreme sensitiveness, he would direct her attention to some other part and without any warning to her touch the sensitive point. When he touched the upper part of her spinal column she nearly fainted, and when he touched the coccyx she screamed with evident agony. As to her neck, she told him she felt as if she was choking.

He does not allow the patient to diagnose a case for him; he asks questions and diagnoses the case for himself. Mrs. Donahue said she thought she had broken her arm and was anxious for an X-ray examination. It was given and no fracture was discovered. She is nervous yet; he treated her last evening because of the effects of being in court yesterday.

To some of Mr. Levy's questions Dr. Ramsay said: "I can't answer that question; "I can't tell what a woman thinks; it is only given to women to understand women." There was some instantaneous work by Mr. Greenlaw in objecting to questions, and the court ruling them out.

There were times when her arm was all right; at other times it was very painful for her to move it.

Mr Levy asked as to plaintiff's anxiety to have the case tried. Witness told what she had said, and that she said one witness had been spirited away to Maine, and she hoped it would be tried before any more were sent away.

He said her condition is what is known as a "railway spine," a well known condition, which results from accidents.

Mr. Levy asked as to what treatment Mrs. Donahue should have had after the accident and witness stated a treatment and said she should have been put to bed. When a physician was called she was sent to the hospital. He said it may be six months or a year after an accident before the results show themselves; they may not appear at all, just after it.

A short recess was taken, after which Dr. P. E. Clarke testified. He attended Mrs. Donahue about two weeks and had her transferred to the hospital. He corroborated the evidence of Dr Ramsay. She was very nervous and he gave her sedatives.

Michael Donahue, husband of plaintiff, testified. He is an engineer and has lived here 14 years. Was working, and saw his wife the morning after the accident. She was much bruised. For 10 days she could do a little work; since then she has done very little—has not been able to do much.

Edward Donahue, son of plaintiff, said his mother was never nervous before the accident, and did her own work. Has not been able to do it since, and he and his father have divided it between them.

Mr. Levy asked all the past history of witness, who is 19 years of age. Finally witness was asked if he did not run away from home once. He said he did. He was asked if this did not have an effect on his mother's mental condition; he said he didn't see a thing the matter with her. It was quite a while ago. He went to Fall River and was gone three hours—he thought that wouldn't cause much misery.

Richard Devlin, of Providence, testified. He boarded with plaintiff six summers at Block Island and has known her 20 years. She was an exceptionally well woman before the accident; since she is "a total wreck." He saw her at the hospital. She was in a state of coma and he was not allowed to speak to her. Saw her later at her house, and she complained of her neck and said she was sore all over. A week later her condition was worse. Has seen her twice a month since. She was in bed a long time. She had difficulty to rise from a chair. Witness has not seen her doing any work before the accident she used to prepare the meals.

Witness is not at all related to her. Is treasurer of the Providence Oil Company. Plaintiff is a friend of witness's wife. He has no interest in this case. "You would like to see her get some damages in this suit?" asked Mr. Levy. "Of course I would. Yes sir," said witness.

Mr. Greenlaw introduced a table of "expectation of life." Mr. Sheffield objected, claiming that no permanent injuries had been shown. The tables showed an expectancy of from 25.71 to 26.45 years and the value of $1 was from $17,4131 to $15,9828.

The jury being excused, Mr. Sheffield moved for a non-suit, saying there was no evidence of negligence on the part of defendant. One may fall by turning his ankle. A rug on a bare floor is not negligence; plaintiff had them in her own house. The court interrupted to say that her evidence was that the place was slippery as glass. He pointed out that she said the place where she fell was more slippery than other parts of the floor. He said: "It seems to me, Mr. Sheffield, that this case is not a case for non-suit."

A recess from 12:30 to 2 P. M. was taken.

A SPRUCE STREET ROW.

Each Side Claims the Other Was the Aggressor in the Little Mix-Up.

After two patrol runs Wednesday night there was a gathering of what the spectators thought was a party of peddlers arrested for selling without a license. It was not such a party at all, but seems to have come about something like this.

In front of Max Adelson's store on Spruce street were gathered several Jews, who were sitting on a bench or board or something of the kind. Along came Eddie Suggs, aged 14, a colored boy, and sat down on the same board or bench or whatever the others were occupying. He was invited by Wulf Smith to vacate, but apparently did not take himself away. Smith says his next effort was to throw stones at him (Smith) and smite him so that he was sore hurt, and that Mrs. Suggs came out and mixed it up also. Smith says she struck him over the head with a board, and then brought an axe for another man, who chased him into a near-by house. In witness whereof the other sitters went to the station and added their story to that of Smith.

This morning there was more of it; that is, more talk at the station. The Suggs part of the story came out. The boy said Wulf was the aggressor and hit him first with a rhubarb stalk. Eddie replied with a stone bombardment, then his mother came out and Smith seized her, and Eddie used the board as a club to protect his mother. The axe incident was denied.

Chief Crowley has received notice from Philadelphia of the arrest of Mrs. Mary White on the charge of larceny of goods here, and a request to have some one go to Philadelphia to identify property recovered and for the requisition papers. The woman's husband was here Wednesday night, having been delayed by the freight smash-up, and saw Mrs. Buffum in regard to the charges against his wife. Mrs. Buffum appreciated the position in which he was placed and was not disposed to press the matter too closely. Mr. White will try to return all the property he can.

In the police court this morning an assault case called forth a fine of $10 and costs, $12.60, which was paid. For drunkenness one man was fined $2 and costs, which was still unpaid at last reports. Another was fined $5 and costs. He was on probation on a non-support charge and was surrendered by the probation officer, but the court gave him another chance.

ONLY A FEW FISH.

No scup are being shipped today, though one boat, having evidently mislaid or lost its calendar, brought in some. It is still rough outside and it is a question if some of the trappers will not find damaged twine when they resume work on their traps.

The netters who have been in the harbor several days began moving out Wednesday afternoon and evening, and by this morning about all were gone. It was rough work, but several came in this morning, with 300 to 600 fish each. The local boats did well, the Clara T. having 600, the Wood & Mack 500 and the Thomas B. Congdon 400.

C. B. Anderson furnished the novelty of the day, a catfish, a rarity in these waters, which weighed about 30 pounds.

IMPROMPTU PAIR-OARED RACE.

There was an impromptu rowing match—pair-oared, the regulars would call it—Wednesday afternoon. The course was from Long wharf to and around the dolphin, a distance of one and a half miles. The official information does not state where the finish was, but that there was a finish is evident. The report shows that Officer Buckley, one of the old-time pair-oared champions, and James A. Dwyer were about 20 lengths ahead of the boat manned by Dennis Kelly and A. E. Harwood. The time given was 13 minutes and P. R. Condon was the judge at start and finish.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for Colonel Edward Morrell his estate on the southerly side of Shepard avenue to Theodore Cramp of Philadelphia for the season. This is the first time Mr. Cramp has rented a cottage in Newport.

—One of J. J. Dugan's big teams, with some very tall trees for the Commodore James place, was halted several times on its way down Thames street by low wires. The old and abandoned clock wire across the street in front of The Bijou was one of the stoppers. The wire has been dead for years.

EXTENSION GOING ON.

Rapid Work in Carrying Out the Caswell Building Front.

City Officials Decide to Await Board of Aldermen Meeting Before Taking Action.

Work on the front extension on the Caswell building is progressing rapidly. No time has been lost by the contractor in putting in the extension, and while the concrete foundation put in Wednesday is setting today a large iron girder over the window line has been set and on this has been framed in the roof for the projecting part. It is a comparatively small addition, yet six carpenters are at work on it, and it will be well housed in by the time the court has its attention called to the matter.

The speed with which the roof went on this afternoon suggested that the various parts were all prepared in advance. An iron beam such as has been used to support the roof construction which has gone up today must be ordered and shipped, so that the building-out is no sudden decision.

City Solicitor Sullivan, when he conferred with Mayor Boyle Wednesday afternoon, was told that if the case was an emergency, where hours must be saved, he, as the city's law representative, should proceed with whatever legal steps might be necessary at the earliest possible moment, and the Board of Aldermen would back up his action. On the other hand, if there was not the necessity of proceeding at such great speed, he could appear before the board this evening, with his case ready for presentation, and there would be no question but the board would take such action as the solicitor might consider necessary.

Building Inspector Sullivan also went to the mayor and asked what more he could do in the premises, as he did not care to have it said that he had been derelict in any portion of his duties. He was informed that, as things looked, the inspector had performed all his duties in the matter and the situation was now up to the solicitor.

The latter official decided that a few hours would make no difference to the city's case and so will wait until tonight. He has also decided that there will be no advantage in making arrests for ignoring the building law at the present time, and hence will devote his entire energy to the preservation to the use of the public of that portion of the sidewalk which Mr. Caswell would reclaim.

Just what means of relief will be attempted does not appear to be quite settled. The work is a little far advanced for an injunction against taking the land, as it has already been taken, and there is a suggestion that ejectment proceedings may be instituted. Whatever the case, it looks very much as if the work had proceeded so far that the strip of sidewalk will be occupied for some time, at least. A temporary injunction, if procured, would prevent further construction but would not clear away the obstruction.

TO COMPETE IN THE DRILL.

Newport Lodge of Elks has its attention now directed towards Atlantic City, where the Grand Lodge will hold its annual convention during the week beginning July 10. Hardly had the labors connected with the recent successful minstrels given by the Atlantic City Club been completed when that body entered upon a campaign which it hopes will bring credit to the lodge and the city.

The club will take part in the competitive drill, which carries a prize of $500, and expect to win it. The company formed for this event has a great advantage over most of the other lodges in the important matter of drillmasters, as connected with the local lodge are several of Uncle Sam's officers, who are giving much attention to coaching the men. It is expected that the lodge members and their families attending the convention will number 200.

The Elks will do a little advertising, in their own way, of their city, and it is not at all unlikely that many in attendance at the convention, who have not considered Newport in their itinerary, will visit this city before returning to their homes.

NEWPORT TO ENTER A CREW.

Naval Reserves to Join in Cutter Race at Fall River Cotton Centenary Celebration.

The Fall River Naval Reserves companies have sent invitations to all the companies in this state to participate in the Cotton Centenary celebration and in the cutter race for a valuable cup and individual prizes. A committee of the local Reserves went to Fall River to see about accommodations, and in consequence the Newporters have agreed to enter a crew in the race. It is hoped, if a boat can be secured, to have the crack crew of the Boston Reserves participate.

The race will be rowed in what they call barges, the old-fashioned navy cutters, and not in race boats. The Naval Reserve crew has been out several nights in the race boat for practice. It would have a "picnic" if allowed to row in the race boat.

LOST HIS MONEY OVERBOARD.

One of the bluejackets from battleship Connecticut had a hard-luck experience this morning. When a cutter from the ship was pulling out from Sullivan's wharf a sailor came running down and the boat law b yto wait for him. In jumping from the dock to the flot there was a clinking like money, as a pocketful of silver went rolling towards all sides of the float. The sailor made an attempt to pick up some of the pieces, but was warned not to linger longer. He said the lost about $2 in all, only 30 cents of which he had been able to recover.

MR. LORILLARD'S NEW GARAGE.

Mr. Louis L. Lorillard has about completed a large garage on the rear of his recently purchased estate on Catherine street. The building is fireproof, provided with all modern conveniences and large enough to care for several machines. The cottage, formerly owned by the late Henry Ledyard and later by Mrs. Fanny Foster, is undergoing extensive alterations and improvements, in the meantime Mr. Lorillard and his mother are residing at the Andrews cottage, nearby. Mr. Lorillard has recently received a large high-power electric car.

THE RHODODENDRON SHOW.

Display of These Flowers on Bellevue Avenue Estates Worth Going to See.

This is the season for a stroll down Bellevue avenue to view the rhododendrons in bloom. The first large display is at Mr. Berwind's where there are both natives and hyurids and a great variety of colors. Below, at the old Whiting estate, now the Rives, is the old big grove—it seems nothing short of that—of rhododendron bushes in full bloom, and making as fine a showing as in years past. There is a small display on the Mrs. John Carter Brown property. Across the avenue, on Senator Wetmore's grounds are two large displays one just in from the south gate, of a variety of colors, and one near the house and visible from some distance to the north. At the W. S. Wells place there is another large show of the flowers, some not yet being out, and across Ruggles avenue, on the George S. Scott estate, is another fine bank of the flowers and plants. Some of the flowers are yet to come out, though they promise to be in full bloom in a little time.

There are also other flowers which are making a pretty showing just now, and the trees are at their finest after the rain and with the leaves still retaining their brightness. The floral display on the Ruggles Avenue side of the Scott estate is well worth a visit. Probably many who go by this place have never noticed what is to be seen just now, on the Ruggles Avenue side.

TO INSPECT THE COAL MINES.

Party of Citizens Invited by the Company to Make a Special Trip to Portsmouth.

Recently Superintendent Johnson of the Rhode Island Coal Company sent an open letter to the School Committee, asking that body to give his company an opportunity to be considered in the annual contract for coal for the schools and suggesting that the members visit the mines. He proposed to give convincing proof that the coal would serve the purpose and asked for a thorough investigation. Today invitations were received by a number of representative citizens to visit the mines next Saturday afternoon, to see for themselves the work going on there and the merit of the undertaking.

The party will have a special car on the 1:10 P. M. train for the mines and it is understood that a nearly four-hour inspection tour of the colliery has been arranged. To most of those who will go on this trip the sight will be quite strange, for while only 10 miles from Newport few located in this city know what is going on there, except such information as they gather from glimpses caught in passing on trains.

It is understood that the management of the mines now considers that it has the product where it can put it on the market and stand behind it, and it looks very much as if they proposed to show Newport its value and put it on the market as a competitor of the Pennsylvania article. The fact that the coal has been but little used in Newport, which is practically at the mouth of the mine, has naturally been taken as an argument against its use by communities at greater distance, where there has been more attempt to introduce it.

FLOWING FAUCET ON THE TOURO PARK FOUNTAIN.

Wednesday afternoon Sullivan Brothers installed one of the flowing drinking faucets at the fountain on Touro Park. As soon as it was adjusted a number of small boys and girls tested it. The girls made the best test, for they drank as the fountain is supposed to be used, from the top of the water.

The water does not flow except when one wishes to take a drink. Then, pressing a double spring handle, similar to those on spring faucets in houses, the water is turned on and flows upward in a column, which can be regulated by a plumber. There is an escape in the bottom, through which the waste water flows so that none remains for the next drinker, who must supply a fresh spray.

Only one has been put in, the common drinking cups and faucet being on the other side of the post, but perhaps when President Shepley of the Park Commission sees how well this one seems to work he will have another installed.

PENDLETON, Ore., June 8.—Assurance that wool growers have nothing to fear from the proposed downward move of the tariff was received yesterday by Dan P. Smythe, secretary of the Oregon State Wool Growers' Association, in a letter from Dr. S. W. McClure, secretary of the National Wool Growers' Association, who has been in the national Capital. The letter says "I have gone over the situation in Washington very carefully and feel safe in assuring you wool growers that there will be no legislation affecting the tariff passed at the present session of Congress."

PARTIES EVEN IN THE HOUSE.

It is Possible That the Senate May Elect the Next President.

Politicians Believe That There Will be Several Important Independent Candidates.

[Washington Correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The present United States Senate may have the opportunity to choose the next President of the United States. It will require a train of circumstances, but everything is so arranged that the final method of selecting a President provided for in the constitution may be invoked. Should there be independent candidates who would receive a sufficient number of electoral votes to prevent either of the regular party candidates from having a majority of the electoral college then the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives. But the House of Representatives could not elect.

Naturally with 65 majority for the Democrats in the House it would be assumed that the dominant party had a majority of the state delegations. Such is no the case. When an election goes to the House each state has one vote. On this basis there would be 22 votes for the Republican candidate, and in three states the delegation would be equally divided, which would prevent an election by the House, as the constitution says the man must have a majority of the states.

The same section of the Constitution which provides for a Presidential election by the House says that if the House fails to elect by March 4 then the Vice President shall be President. If the electoral college fails to choose a Vice President, which would be the case if a President was not chosen, then the Senate elects the Vice President, who becomes President March 4 if the House does not elect.

It is very seldom that a situation is such as to make the occasion ripe for giving the election to the Senate. Very seldom is the balance between the states in the House so even that neither party has a majority of the states by delegations. The possibility of the Senate choosing the next President has been discussed because many politicians believe that there is a probability of one if not two very important independent candidates next year.

There are men who admire both Joe Bailey and John Sharp Williams who hope to see them in a battle royal in the Senate over the tariff. It would be worth while. They are both Democrats, both born in Mississippi, but they belong to different schools of tariff revision.

Williams is for a reduction of the apples?" asked Senator Clark.

lieve in taking the tariff off any raw material unless it is also removed from the manufactured product. Bailey opposes piecemeal reductions; Williams will take reductions wherever he can get them, hoping for more another time. Bailey is strong in his views, and Williams is not less imbued with his ideas. It would be a great debate.

"If I wished to farm, raise stock and fruit, I know of no better locality in the United States than Maine," said a witness before the finance committee. The members became interested, especially when Senator Johnson of Maine asked a few questions about apples.

"Are your apples superior to Oregon apples?" asked Senator Clark.

"Oh, yes," replied Johnson. Then Senator Gallinger followed it up with assertion that if New England gave the same attention to fruit raising as Oregon she would have the world beaten in the quality of apples and other fruit.

What surprised the committee was the fact that Maine had Oregon beaten in the quality of apples. Oregon has had the name for the best apples for years.

"Here's your news of the White House!" announce the keepers of the Capitol press galleries upon the arrival of a well known newspaper man with typewritten slips of what is given out to the newspaper men at the White House each day. He is the White House press agent.

Several departments of the government have regular press agents, and why not the White House, which has become the greatest news-centre of the executive branch of the government? How times have changed! Years ago every newspaper man hustled after his news in every department and every bureau. Executive orders have closed every avenue of news in the departments save the secretary, and he has not time to give out the news, so a press agent does it for him. It's always the kind which the department wants, which is not always satisfactory to the news gatherers.

SKIN TORTURED BABIES SLEEP

A warm bath with Cuticura soap, followed by a gentle anointing with Cuticura ointment, is generally sufficient to afford immediate comfort in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly eczemas, rashes, irritations and inflammations of infants and children, permit sleep for child and rest for parent, and point to permanent relief when other methods fail. Peace falls upon distracted households when these pure, sweet and gentle emollients enter. No other treatment for the skin costs so little and does so much.

HEROISM IN LIGHTHOUSE.

French Government's Attention Called to Faithfulness of Family of Dying Keeper.

The attention of the French government has been called to a dramatic incident demonstrating the faithfulness to duty of the family in charge of Kerdonis lighthouse on the southeast point of Belle Ile-En-Mer, a wind-swept spot on the Brittany coast.

Matelott, the keeper of the lighthouse, while cleaning the revolving lamp was stricken with illness. He continued his work until he was carried by his wife, in a dying condition to his bed. The woman was unable to abandon her post or her four young children to seek help. As dusk came on she mounted the tower to light the lamp and returned just in time to hear her husband's dying words.

One of the children discovered that the light was not burning, and the woman, realizing the danger of disaster to mariners, who might mistake Kerdonis for other fixed lights, worked vainly for an hour to repair the mechanism. Finally she set the two eldest children, aged 7 and 10, to work and throughout the night, with a fierce storm raging, they turned the heavy lamp with their puny strength.

GREAT LAKES WITHOUT DEFENSE

An order issued Wednesday by the Navy Department, placing gunboat Wolverine out of commission at Erie, Pa., preparatory to turning her over to the naval militia at that place, is of deep international significance. It removes from the Great Lakes the last regularly commissioned United States warship and leaves the "inland seas" without an American navy vessel for the first time since the Bagot agreement, limiting the naval armament on the lakes, was adopted early in the last century.

The Wolverine, which was formerly the old iron gunboat Michigan, has patrolled the lakes for more than 25 years.

EXPEDITION IS SUCCESSFUL.

Searchers Recover Gold Hidden Off the Honduran Coast.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 8.—A message received here from a party of treasure seekers on board steamer Eureka say their expedition to recover an immense cache of gold, hidden by the crew of a Chilian cruiser off the Honduran coast many years ago, has been successful. The treasure has been variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $65,000,000, according to reports circulated here. The steamer is now headed for this port.

The Eureka is in command of Captain Burtiss and was taken on a 30-day charter by a party of San Francisco people, about two weeks ago. The expedition is said to have been financed by Henry Krelling, a well known clubman of San Francisco. The map showing the location of the buried treasure is said to have been in the possession of a former resident of Honduras, who succeeded in interesting Krelling in his story of the buried gold. The result was the chartering of the Eureka.

The fact that most of the South American republics will not allow the exportation of gold made it necessary to guard the plans of the expedition. The message received from Salina Cruz yesterday said: "Expedition a success in every way. Reach San Diego for oil next week."

DEMAND OF AMERICAN GROWERS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 8.—A. E. Coons, agent for a fruit express, was notified yesterday that American growers of fruits and vegetables in Mexico would ask the State Department at Washington to file a demand for $100,000 damages from the Mexican government. The growers assert that the wrecking of the railroad bridges by the insurrecto forces has caused the loss of canteloupe and tomato crops in two states of Mexico.

SEVEN DEFENDANTS SENTENCED

Charged With Conspiring to Secure Late Prince Oginsky's Fortune.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 8.—The sensational trial of the 12 men, including two noblemen, a lieutenant, a priest and four lawyers charged with conspiring to secure the fortune of the late Prince Bohdan Oginsky, was ended today with the sentencing of the seven defendants found guilty. Staff Captain Dmitry Von Liarliarski was condemned to two years' imprisonment and his accomplices were deprived of their civil rights.

The case attracted wide atention, as the two chief men accused were Von Liarliarski and his step-father, Colonel Vladimir Von Liarliarski, who belongs to the Guards and was until his arrest master of the horse at the imperial court. The Oginsky family is one of the oldest of the Lithuanian nobility and possessed vast estates in Poland, Galicia and Lithuania. Its last representitive Prince Bohdan, died childless and without having fulfilled his avowed purpose of adopting as his heir Count Joseph Zulasky.

Soon after the death of the prince in 1909 Captain Von Liarliarski appeared in St. Petersburg with what purported to be Prince Bohdan's will, appointing his distant relative General Nikolai Von-Liarliarski the sole heir of his estates and providing that should General Nikolai predecease the testator, then Captain Dmitry was to be sole heir. He produced proof of the death of General Nikolai in 1906 and through relatives at court secured permission to use the title of Prince Oginsky without waiting to prove the will. Princess Oginsky became suspicious and brought an action which established that the alleged will had been forged.

HAS KILLED 57 PERSONS.

Startling Revelations Made by a Criminal in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 8.—Startling revelations were made today by a criminal who murdered an officer of the army and the officer's wife at Sebastopol. The man was arrested at Tsaritsin and now says that he has in the course of his career killed 57 persons, including among his victims Dr. Pipoff, a surgeon of Kasan. The doctor's assistant and a midwife were accused of his death and, being convicted, are now serving terms of imprisonment.

MOVEMENTS CAUSED CONCERN.

The Eureka's Actions Puzzled State and Navy Departments.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The movements of steamer Eureka have given much concern to the State and Navy Departments for a month past. The Nicaraguan minister here learned through private sources that the vessel had cleared from San Francisco about May 12 for the bay of Fonseca, on the west coast of Nicaragua, supposedly with arms and ammunition. Gunboat Yorktown was dispatched in haste from Panama to San Juan Del Sur and afterward to Amapala, to overhaul and search the Eureka. Two days ago she reported to the Navy Department that no arms had been found on the Eureka, which is a steam schooner. No attempt was made to detain the Eureka, although the Nicaraguan minister suspected that she had discharged her arms on some of the coast islands or trans-shipped them to some coasting vessel.

ANNIVERSARY DAY.

Exercises at St. Paul's School Open With Reception to Retiring Rector.

CONCORD, N. H., June 8.—Anniversary day at St. Paul's School opened with a reception by the retiring rector, Rev. Dr. Henry Ferguson, who is to be succeeded at the opening of the next school year by Rev. Dr. Samuel Drury, the present vice rector. During the anniversary religious service in the school chapel, a memorial window to the late Rev. John Hargate, long time master of the school, was dedicated by Bishop Coadjutor Parker of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire. The sermon of the day was preached by Rev. James E. Freeman of Minneapolis. The annual school dance this evening will complete the day's observance.

WEATHERING RECENT ATTACK.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., June 8.—In spite of his 93 years John Bigelow, the author and diplomat, seems to be weathering the attack that alarmed his friends a week ago. Mr. Bigelow was much improved today. After eating a hearty breakfast he said, "I believe the good Being in Heaven intends that I shall remain here a while longer."

DUE TO LAYING OFF OF MEN.

Nearly 2,000 Boiler Makers Go Out in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Between 1,000 and 2,000 boiler makers, employed by the Baldwin Locomotive works in this city, went on strike today without the sanction, it is said, of the national officers of the Boilermakers' Union. No wage question is involved, the trouble being due to the laying off of 200 men some weeks ago. The union men assert that the men were forced out because they had joined labor organizations, but the company officials declare the men were laid off because there was not enough work for them. The national officers of the union had decided to postpone a strike pending negotiations with the company.

THE LAWRENCE GRAFT CASES.

Motion Made That Indictments Against Four Men be Quashed.

SALEM, Mass., June 8.—The so-called Lawrence graft cases came before the superior court here today, when four men were placed on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the city of Lawrence by means of padding bills. The defendants are Patrick J. Lyons, superintendent of streets, Michael Flynn, clerk in the street department, and Philip Holland, a contractor, all of Lawrence, and Fred L. Snow of Westford, a paving block dealer. Judge Bell presided and a great array of counsel appeared. As soon as court opened, Attorney James H. Vahey of Watertown, of counsel for Holland, moved that the indictments be quashed on the ground that they did not state that the various counts covered the same alleged offense. The argument on this motion occupied the greater part of the forenoon.

"EVERY WORD CORRECT."

Roosevelt Confirms Report Concerning Presidential Candidacy.

NEW YORK, June 8.—"Every word there is correct," declared Colonel Theodore Roosevelt on his arrival here from Vermont this afternoon, when shown a despatch from White River Junction stating that he would not be a candidate for President in 1912.

"You are quoted as saying that you would regard it as a calamity if you were nominated?" was asked.

"Not another word," smilingly replied Colonel Roosevelt, "and there will be no more statements regarding the matter."

WOULD BE A CALAMITY.

Roosevelt Says He Will Not be a Candidate for Presidency in 1912.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., June 8.—Wallace Batchelder, member of Troop K, Rough Riders, and active in connection with Colonel Roosevelt's visit to Vermont yesterday, was authority for the statement today that he had asked Colonel Roosevelt yesterday whether he would be a candidate for President in 1912. Colonel Roosevelt at once replied that he emphatically would not be, that he should regard it as a calamity if he were nominated and, that he expected and demanded that every friend and supporter of his would do everything in his power to prevent any movement looking toward his, the colonel's, nomination.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 8.—Warren Brothers storehouse, on Nash road, was partially consumed by fire early this morning. The loss will exceed $1,000. A quantity of machinery was ruined by the fire. A VARIED PROGRAM PRESENTED Conference of Charities and Corrections Deals With Many Subjects.

BOSTON, June 8.—An extensive and varied program was carried out by the National Conference of Charities and Corrections during the morning hours today. Following the general session in Ford Hall, which was taken up with the reports of corresponding secretaries of the states and territories represented, a wide range of subjects dealing with charity and corrections were discussed in the public hall around Beacon hill. "Adequate relief" for families and neighborhoods, the care of destitute and neglected children, housing, health and recreation, drunkenness and mental defects of law breakers offered opportunity for the visiting delegates to get in touch with the most advanced theories for successful work in their chosen field.

At the Twentieth Century Hall Dr. Harlow Brooks and Dr. W. R. Williams of New York discussed the subject of drunkenness, in regard to the effect of alcohol on the organs and functions of the body. Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, and Joseph Lee considered the problems of housing, health and recreation. In Ford Hall delegates interested in the mental defects of delinquents listened to addresses by Dr. William Hely of Chicago, Dr. M. C. Schlapp of New York, Professor Maurice Parmelee of the University of Missouri and many other noted experts in penology. Other speakers at the morning section meetings were: Frederic Almy of Buffalo, who considered families and neighborhoods, and Dr. J. R. Brackett of Boston.

TAFT LEAVES THE CAPITAL.

President Accompanied by Hilles and Butt Starts for New York.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Hilles and Major Butt, left this morning for New York and Brooklyn. He will be back in Washington early tomorrow.

THE PRESIDENT IN BROOKLYN.

A Full Program Planned for Taft During the Day.

NEW YORK June 8.—President Taft reached here from Washington at 1:08 o'clock this afternoon for a visit to Brooklyn, where he was welcomed at [illegible] after which he reviewed a parade of Sunday School children.

Brooklyn is noted for the number and size of its Sunday Schools, and it was expected 150,000 children would participate in today's celebration. The President was scheduled to review the parade from a stand in Prospect Park, between 3:30 and 4 p. m. He was due to arrive over the Pennsylvania Railroad at 1:01 p. m. Mayor Gaynor and the borough officers arranged to meet him at the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg bridge and escort him first to the Hanover Club, to meet the officers and pastors of the Sunday School Union. At the Union League Club next, the President was to take luncheon with Governor Dix and the other distinguished guests. Then he planned to go to the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church to address the children gathered for exercises preceding the parade.

The Lacrosse match he will see after the parade is at the Crescent Athletic Club grounds, between teams representing the club and the Montreal Athletic Association. At 6:30 p. m. revenue cutter Seneca will take the President and his party across the bay and East river for the Colonial Seed Crushers' banquet at the Hotel Astor. At the request of several Southern Senators, President Taft intends to outline in his speech here the effect reciprocity with Canada would have upon the South.

THE VENDANTA PHILOSOPHY.

Many Prominent People Belonged or Attended the New York Society.

ALFRED, Maine, June 8.—That Vivekanka lectures in New York are attended by thousands of people, that there is a Vendanta Society in New York and in all great cities, that Professor Herschel C. Parker of Columbia University is a former president of the New York society, and that many prominent people belonged to the society or attended the lectures, was brought out by Charles K. Cobb, counsel for the estate of the late Mrs. Ole Bull, today in the hearing on the contest against Mrs. Bull's will.

The testimony was given by Miss Siri Swanander, the New York school mistress, who was called to the stand for cross-examination. In referring to some of the prominent people who attended the lectures she named Walter C. Goodyear, a prominent New York manufacturer, Rev. H. R. Newton of St. George's Church, New York; Professor William Jackson, A. B., and Professor A. W. Dow of Columbia University, and the late Bishop Potter of New York. She did not know whether this Vendanta philosophy is taught at Harvard. The late Max Miller wrote a book on Vendanta philosophy and spoke of it very highly, she said.

Miss Swanander, who became a student of Vendanta philosophy in 1896 and attended her last lecture ten years ago was asked what the principle of it was. She said it was founded on the same principle as the Ten Commandments, but was broader and included love and animals and plants in the scheme of things. Asked if there is any difference in belonging to the Vendanta philosophy and the Christian religion, she replied, "Vendanta is broader, that is all." She thought it aided to understand and appreciate the Christian religion.

Mrs. Bull, she said, had visions when awake as well as when sleeping, and they were of the living as well as of the dead. The visions were more frequent when she was not so well. The fundamental idea of the Vendanta is to lead an upright life, visit the fatherless and motherless, and to remain unspotted from the world. "Yoga" is from the sanscrit word meaning "Joining of a higher and lower self in the worship of God."

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, June 8, Wall Street.—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 68¾, American Beet Sugar 54, American Smelting and Refining 81¼, Atchison Topeka & San Fe 115⅝, Baltimore & Ohio 103¼, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 83¾, Canadian Pacific 240, Chesapeake & Ohio 85⅝, Chicago Mil. & St. Paul 133⅝, Erie 35⅝, Great Northern pfd. 129¼, Great Northern Ore Ctfs. 63½, Missouri Pacific 52¾, New York Central 110½, Northern Pacific 136⅞, Pennsylvania 124½, Reading 161, Rock Island 33¾, Southern Pacific 121, Southern Railway 30, Union Pacific 187½, United States steel 78½, United States Steel pfd. 118½, Wabash pfd. 38⅝, Lehigh Valley 180¼. Prices were lifted fractionally higher at the opening of the stock market today, on a continuation of the buying movement which began late yesterday. Canadian Pacific made the largest advance moving up 1⅝ to 240, the highest price at which this stock has ever sold. Chicago Great Western gained ⅝. Great Northern Preferred and Brooklyn Rapid Transit ⅝ and American Telephone and St. Paul ½. Atchison lost ⅜.

11—Speculation broadened and there was a notable rise in most of the representative railroad stocks. The Hill and Southern groups made the best showing, but the Grangers and Pacifics also improved materially. United States Steel and Atchison were about the only active issues that failed to make any upward progress. Vulcan Detinning preferred sold at 65 compared with 61 the previous sale in May.

Noon—The bull party took the stock market in hand this morning and forced up prices rapidly. Trading was much heavier than on any recent day and the market displayed considerable degree of strength, although it was somewhat irregular. United States Steel showed the heaviness which has characterized it throughout the week. The Western Railroad stocks were among the strongest. Buying of these issues was stimulated by expectations of a favorable government crop report later in the day. Atchison and Amalgamated Copper also were backward. Stocks were sold liberally for a time in the second hour and a sharp fractional reaction occurred. Trading then became quiet, with a few isolated upward movements. Bonds were firm. Money on call steady at 2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½ to 4 per cent. Exchanges $37,582,749; balances $13,907,776.

LOSE BY ONE POINT.

Y.M.C.A. Team, Needing Nine to Tie, Splits for Third in Last Event.

Cloyne School Wins from the Boys' Team in Close Athletic Meet.

In the dual track meet at the Cloyne School field Wednesday afternoon the Cloyne boys were victorious over the Young Men's Christian Association boys' department team by the close score of 35½ to 35½. The meet was held on the field adjoining President Huntington's house, beginning at 3 o'clock. At the start there was some murmuring on the part of the Association team, because of the entry of Morse on the opposing side, he being one of the masters at the school. No open protest was offered, however, and Mr. Morse was permitted to participate, carrying off the honors easily in the first and fifth events.

Throughout the contest, particularly towards the end, the rivalry was keen. Up to the final event it was a question which side would be declared the winner, although the Cloyne boys had a little the better of it. The proposition which the Association boys faced when they were called together for the final event, the pole vault, was not altogether encouraging. By taking first, second and third places they could gain nine points, which would have resulted in a tie. As shown by the score, the Cloyne boys split the difference for third place, thus winning by a full point.

The performances of Wells and Morse for Cloyne was especially good, while Sullivan and Warden scored heavily for the Young Men's Christian Association. Thurston, while not figuring in the scoring was generally fourth, or a close third, showing especially well in the high jump. The summary:

Standing broad jump—R. Crawford, Cloyne, first, distance 9 feet; Sullivan, Young Men's Christian Association, second; Morse, Cloyne, third.

Running broad jump—Morse, Cloyne first, 17 feet 4 inches; Warden, Young Men's Christian Association, second; Sullivan, Young Men's Christian Association, third.

100-yard dash—Wells, Cloyne, first, 11 4-5 seconds; Warden, Young Men's Christian Association, second; Connolly, Young Men's Christian Association, third.

50-yard dash—Wells, Cloyne, first, 6 seconds; Warden and Van Dam, tied for second; R. Crawford, Cloyne, third.

Running high jump—Howard, Young Men's Christian Association, first; Crawford, Cloyne, second; Wells and Warden, tied for third.

200-yard dash—Morse, Cloyne, first, 24 1-5 seconds; Wells, Cloyne, second; Sullivan, Young Men's Christian Association, third.

Hop, skip and jump—Wigren, Young Men's Christian Association, first, 35 feet ½ inches; Connolly, Young Men's Christian Association, second; Van Dam, Cloyne, third.

Pole vault—Sullivan and Wyllie, tied for first, 7 feet 5½ inches; Sullivan and Wyllie, tied for second; Wilcott and Townsend, tied for third.

Score—Cloyne School, 36½; Young Men's Christian Association, 35½. Timer and scorer, Mr. Butterworth; starter, Mr. Towne; judges, Mr. Werner and Mr. Fitzhenry.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.

Memorial Day Committee Hears Commendation of Its Plan of Decorating Graves.

The Memorial Day committee at its final meeting Wednesday evening closed its business for the year. Bills were approved, and when the summing up was made it was found that there is a balance of $6.66 from the appropriation.

Secretary Milne read a letter from Mrs. Thomas, widow of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, U. S. N., extending her thanks for flagging and decorating her husband's grave in the Berkeley Memorial Chapel yard.

Resolutions were passed thanking Mr. Herbert W. Lull for his oration on Memorial day, Rev. Gustavus A. Hulbert for his Memorial Sunday sermon and his services on Memorial day, the Women's Relief Corps for its assistance, and especially for the supper after the exercises; Comodes Pritchard and Slocum for their efforts in providing music for the service at the First Presbyterian Church, Naval brigades from the Training Station and battleships Connecticut and Michigan and the troops from Forts Adams and Greble, the Spanish War Veterans, the press and others who assisted the committee.

During the meeting Past Department Commander Milne spoke of a visit to Oak Grove Cemetery in Fall River soon after Memorial day, and told the members of the local committee that the method of decorating the graves in Newport is much better than that employed in Fall River. He also spoke of the excellent care which Past Dopartment Commander McMahon gives to the soldiers and sailors' plot in the Island cemetery.

Comrade John B. Mason spoke of the difficulties he had experienced in decorating the graves in Middletown and Portsmouth, saying he had been engaged in this work from 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly time to join in the Memorial services in the evening Sunday and suggested that the authorities of these towns be asked to decorate the graves another year.

MAY RESUME PLAY FRIDAY.

Contestants Eager for Second Match to Win International Polo Cup.

August Belmont Gives Brilliant Dinner for Members of Teams at Meadow Brook Club.

The continued rain Wednesday necessitated the third postponement in as many days of the second match for the international polo cup. No efforts will be made to bring the teams together today, on account of the soggy field but, weather permitting, the struggle will be resumed Friday at 4:30 o'clock, when the British army officers will work hard to turn the tables and wire out their defeat in the first match, just one week ago.

If the Englishmen win, the third and deciding match will be played early next week, as all complications over the ponies and invading players appear to have been smoothed out. Lieutenant Edwards, who scored four goals for England in the first match, will not be lost to his team, as an extension of his leave was secured Wednesday, and he will sail with the other members of the team next Wednesday. Further than that, the shipping order on the ponies was cancelled for Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis Saturday, and stalls engaged for the Minnetonka, which sails a week later.

There is plenty of confidence among the Britons. They say all they need is their ponies in fair condition to win. Any way, they feel that fortune is favoring them, as Darling and Dorothy, two of the best of the ponies, have rounded into condition and will be a valuable addition to the string.

All the American ponies worked Wednesday at the Whitney stables. Harry Payne Whitney went over to the international field between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning. He had C. P. Beadleston gallop a pony up and down the field, pulling up short so as to judge the condition of the turf. It was so soggy that the American captain expressed doubt as to its being ready even for a game Friday. Later he was joined by Captain Lloyd, leader of the English challengers, and the two had luncheon together at Mr. Whitney's home.

None of the American trio, Larry and Monte Waterbury and Devereaux Millburn, made their appearance during the day. It was stated that they had gone to the city when it was known that another postponement of the match was inevitable.

In view of what is known about playing polo in the rain and after regular floods, it may seem strange to many to read of the several postponements of the international polo match. The trouble is that the Meadow Brook field is a new one, on which the turf is not yet fully matured. Such a field is not nearly so well fitted for play in wet weather as one with old turf, and the turf on the old polo ground in this city was the "best ever" under such conditions, for it held no matter what happened. On the new field at Brenton's point the play one afternoon was stopped because the north end of the field was so deep in water that the ball almost floated, and no direction or distance could be obtained. The next morning the match was finished, but the turf had years of growth and was in the best of condition.

The weather man was able to prevent the second match for the international polo championship again Wednesday, but not a brilliant dinner given by Mr. August Belmont for the members of the English and American teams and their friends at the Meadow Brook Club at night. It was one of the most interesting and enjoyable "stag" dinners ever given at the club famous for its lavish hospitality.

Everything about the dining room was suggestive of the tournament on which the interest of the polo and hunting world is centred just now. The table was shaped like a large horseshoe. The decorations were dark blue, the colors of the British team, and sky blue and white, the colors of the American team and also of the Polo Association were prominently displayed. American and British flags also decked the table, and sets of polo balls were attractively used in the decorations.

Among those present were Messrs. W. Butler Duncan, Henry S. Page, James W. Appleton, Arthur S. Burden, John S. Phipps, Joseph P. Grace, Harold C. Phipps, Walter J. Goodwin, H. C. Brokaw, Captain H. H. Wilson, Edwin D. Morgan, Captain S. W. Barrett, James M. Waterbury, Jr., Louis E. Stoddard, Frederick N. Watriss, Mr. Bryce, E. L. Winthrop, Jr., Leonard Jacob, John A. Rawlins, W. Goadby Loew, Raymond Belmont, Elliott C. Cowdin, J. Clinch Smith, Samuel Willets, Kenneth B. Schley, Joseph E. Davis, E. Willard Robb, Robert F. Potter and James Park, Bradley Martin, Jr., Henry M. Earle, R. P. Neilson, John E. Cowdin, Lawrence Waterbury, Oliver W. Bird, James A. Burden, Ralph M. Ellis, R. W. Winthrop, Malcolm Stevenson, Captain Lloyd, Harry Paine Whitney, Lieutenant Paines, Henry Lloyd Herbert, Devereaux Milburn, August Belmont, Jr., Joseph S. Stevens, H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy, Alfonso De Navarro, Henry W. Bull, W. Scott Cameron, H. C. Beadleston, C. C. Rumsey, Hamilton Hadden, H. F. Godfrey, Rone La Montagne, F. Ambrose Clarke, E. S. THE BELLEVUE AVENUE ROADBED.

On Bellevue avenue Wednesday there were many muddy places after the little rain which fell, and in places one would not believe the avenue had been re-surfaced this spring. There were muddy places at the head of Church street, near the Redwood Library, at Perry Perry street and near the Berwing place, and perceptible dishes in the road near Travers block and the Casino. In most places the road was in good condition, the oil keeping the bed dry and oily, but the quantity of mud seen in the places named gives little promise of a good season.

TO REMOVE TO NORFOLK.

Eugene Schreier to Close Out His Newport Store and Engage in Business There.

Mr. Eugene Schreier, who has been a resident and business man in Newport for 26 years, has decided to close out his affairs here and remove to Norfolk, Va., to reside. Mr. Schreier came to Newport September 8, 1885, starting the millinery business in the Dennis building on Thames street, where he has since been located. In April, 1906, he formed the co-partnership of Schreier & Son and opened a millinery store in Norfolk, with his son, Mr. Alfred Schreier, in charge, Mr. Eugene Schreier devoting his time principally to his Newport establishment and making only occasional visits to Norfolk.

EUGENE SCHREIER.

The business was started in the exposition year and has prospered, being now the largest concern in the Virginian city devoted exclusively to millinery. Recently an opportunity came for enlarging it in a desirable location, and Messrs. Schreier & Son have secured an entire four-story building, now being erected on a corner of the principal street. Here they will engage in the retail and wholesale business, occupying all four floors and being the only concern engaged in the wholesale millinery business in Norfolk.

Owing to the increase in the business in the South Mr. Eugene Schreier feels that he must devote his personal attention to the enlarged enterprise and in order to do this must close out his Newport enterprise. He does not expect to leave Newport until September, and then will not entirely sever his connection with the city, even if he leaves with his family and makes his home elsewhere. His associations with Newport and her people, extending over a quarter of a century, are such that they cannot easily be broken entirely and he will return frequently to renew old acquaintances.

Mr. Alfred Schreier, after leaving school, had his first business experience in his father's store here and later extended this as a buyer for leading wholesale houses. Since 1906, he has been in charge of the establishment in Norfolk, where he has become popular among the business men on account of his enterprise and his readiness to aid in public activities for the benefit of the city.

FINAL REHEARSAL HELD.

Principals in the "Nautical Knot" Operetta Supported by a Strong Chorus.

At the final rehearsal for the "Nautical Knot," Wednesday evening, everything went off smoothly and in a manner satisfactory to Mr. Hendy and those in charge. The scenery is attractive and the costumes in excellent taste, and there is no doubt but many pleasant surprises await the audience.

The operetta is in two acts, in which there is no change of scene. The curtain rises on the quaint little hamlet of Barnstapoole, a fishing town. There is a view of the ocean and at a distance is seen the "Bounding Billow," a fishing schooner.

The title role is to be taken by Miss Margaret O'Hanley, who will represent Julia, the proud yet captivating belle of Barnstapoole, over whom all the men are crazy. Miss O'Hanley has a delicate soprano voice and its sweetness together with her charming manner well qualifies her for such a part. Nance, Julia's friend, a gentle damsel, is capitally portrayed by Miss Isabelle Wetmore, whose contralto voice is heard to good effect in several solos.

Henry C. Bowler, as Barnabas Lee, an artist in search of beauty, is new in musical circles, but possesses a good tenor voice. H. Congdon Anthony, as Joe Stout, the stalwart mate of the "Bounding Billow," has a pleasing baritone. Tom Freeman takes the part of Bill Salt, an ancient mariner, boatswain of the "Bounding Billow." He sings his solos in deep, stentorian voice which well becomes a seasoned sailor. Delia, Daisy and Dora, three Barnstapoole girls, more or less in love, are represented by Misses Isabelle O'Sullivan, May Smythe and Margaret Halpin, and are supported by W. Norman Sayer as Jim Spray, Fred O'Sullivan as Ned Bluff, and Lewis B. Plummer as Jack Brace.

Besides these principals, there will be a large chorus, taking the various parts of fisher girls, townspeople, sailors and artists. The chorus is powerful and is especially effective in the opening of the two acts.

BACK FROM THE Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Mr. W. H. Chapin this morning resumed his duties at the Young Men's Christian Association, after attending a strenuous conference of the Association graded officers at Columbus, Ohio. The convention was attended by 691 delegates from the United States and Canada. One of the features which impressed him most, Mr. Chapin says, was an evening at which four representatives of the work in China, South America, the Philippines and India laid before the convention the needs in those countries. The only delegates from this section were Secretary L. B. Hawkins of the Providence and Secretary George McHeavey of the Boston Associations.

MRS. DONAHUE'S INJURIES.

She Claims They Were Severe and the Effects Still Continue.

Shows in Court Just How the Accident in the Titus Store Occurred.

The case of Donahue vs. Titus Company proceeded before Judge Stearns in the superior court Wednesday afternoon.

Plaintiff resumed her direct examination. She said she wore a straw hat, a sort of a mushroom hat—a peach basket hat. The floor was slippery as glass. She never knew how she left the store, or how she reached home. The jamb of the door made a dent in her cheek, where she fell. She was dazed all that week and suffered pain; was in bed from May 25 to June 7. Had a doctor. She is now 45 years old.

She was in the hospital from June 7 to June 19. She had a burning sensation in her head, at the base of the brain; her back was sore and her left side so lame she couldn't sleep on it—cannot yet. Her left hip hurts her yet. Her demonstration, as she called attention to points from head to foot, was accompanied by an occasional "Oh." At the hospital she was more comfortable. Her mind was not right. She became bad again as soon as she left the hospital. Every part of her head pained her—like bees stinging her.

She yet has pains and her arm still feels weighted and as if it would fall when she lifts it. At times she cannot lift it. Her fingers trouble her, too. For months her left ear was useless and it still troubles her. She suffered from nervous shock. Had no nervousness before the fall. Her cheek was all drawn up. Could not sleep after the accident. She was also seriously injured in another way. Her appetite also is gone; goes days without eating; her stomach refuses food. She was always ambitious to work, healthy and strong; now she can do no work. Her jaw was paralyzed; she had to work it with her hand. The shock affected her heart. She has had electrical treatment two or three times a week since last January; it is applied through her feet.

Mr. Levy cross-examined plaintiff. The accident was on a Saturday. She had bought things in the same room before. She went up in the elevator to the second floor. Her eyesight was good, and she saw where she was going. She stepped on the mat; with both her feet on it. It slid, and fell against the jamb of the door. She tried to move her hands and to scream when she started to fall, but she couldn't; she had lost the power. She couldn't save herself. She fell full length against the jamb; it cut her blue broadcloth coat sleeve.

Plaintiff offered to show just how she fell. She was allowed to do so, and using the clerk's desk for the door jamb showed how she slid to the right and struck her left cheek and shoulder as she fell against the door way, before she reached her full length on the floor. She went to bed early that night; found marks on her body after undressing.

Mr. Pike was in the furniture room. Mr. Titus asked her to take a seat; she refused water which he offered. Cannot tell how she reached home—that's what has always been a mystery to her; can remember nothing about it. Remembers talking to Miss Hammett and saying: "I got an awful fall at Titus's." She said the mark was on the cheek yet. Mr. Levy could not see it. She stepped up and showed her cheek to the jury. She had to work her jaw back into place.

There was an intermission, during which Dr. Donley, a Providence expert, arrived as a witness for defendant and took a seat near Mr. Sheffield.

Plaintiff completed her cross-examination. She said she felt better, on leaving the hospital; as if she could do some work. She found she could not. Could not do her housework; her husband and daughter did it, and waited on her. She can hear all right now; for several months she could not. Under Mr. Levy's persuasive influence she admitted that she is some better now. To accommodate him she removed her "amber glasses" and said it made her eye shut right up. They were prescribed for her last January by Dr. Ramsay (who is attending the trial).

Mr. Levy inquired into her past physical condition, in reference to her claim of internal injury. She admitted a slight operation, 14 years ago, due to trouble when her boy was born. This was the only treatment she had had in 20 years, except for two sore toes. She didn't even have grip or a severe cold.

In the store, she say the mat. Everything seemed all right until she slipped. Didn't notice the windows in the "curtain room" she was entering. She has seen polished floors with rugs on them—never with a small mat like this one. Has lived in a house with all polished, bare floors, and some rugs; she generally has floors carpeted.

She has not been worrying about this case. "I've been longing to get here," said she, "to tell my story." It had not made her a bit nervous. She was not anxious, or provoked not to come before—she was looking forward to the trial—"and you were too, Mr. Levy," she added.

She has ridden in electric cars since the accident, but it was no pleasure. She had to get on her knees, and her spine is hurt. The Titus floor is more polished than hers used to be; it was slippery as a dance hall—she used to go to dances in former days. She did not know that if she stepped on a rug on a polished floor it was likely to slip. She went to the store the following Thursday; went and came alone. "I shan't deny that," she said.

At 4:28 the court adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

EXAMINATIONS FOR ARMY LIEUTENANCIES.

There will be a competitive examination in September for the selection of about 100 civilians for appointment to be second lieutenants in the cavalry, field artillery an dinfantry of the United States army. The examinations will be conducted at a number of military posts throughout the country, and candidates will be examined at posts as convenient as practicable to their homes.

MINOR LEAGUE GAMES.

Lenthal Wins from Cranston, and Potter from Mumford—Carey Withdrawn.

Two games in the minor series of the Grammar School Base Ball League were played Wednesday afternoon, Lenthal defeating Cranston, 18 to 5, and Potter beating Mumford, 8 to 5.

In the former Cranston could do little with Kane's pitching after the first inning, when three runs were made. Lenthal scored in rapid succession and in every inning, on 11 hits and numerous passed balls and errors. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Lenthal	2	1	3	6	2	1	3	—18
Cranston	3	0	0	0	2	0	0	— 5

Batteries—Kane and Walsh, Donovan and McCarthy; Cottrell and Coggeshall.

The second game was close and interesting. Moriarity pitched for Mumford until the fourth inning, when he was relieved by Harrington, who kept down Potter's scoring. The batting was the feature, most of the runs being made on safe hits. The score by innings, follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Potter	1	1	3	3	0	0	x	— 8
Mumford	1	1	1	0	0	1	1	— 5

Batteries—Benevienga and Nightingale; Moriarity, Harrington and Integlia.

Carey has withdrawn from the league, all the games it has played being thrown out of the summary.

Today Coddington and Calvert play in the major series and Thayer and Potter in the minor.

TO CONTINUE MRS. BULL'S CASE.

James G. Blaine, 3d., son of the late Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, was substituted Friday, by order of Justice Cohalan, as plaintiff in an action which Mrs. Bull began to recover $35,000 from John A. Qualey and Harvey W. Corbett of the Magnesia-Asbestos Company. Mrs. Bull who died in January, directed that the suit be continued. She tried to recover money which she invested with the defendants in their business, obtained on false representations, she charged.

LIGHT REGISTRATION IN THE WARDS.

Deputy City Clerk Callahan has been about in the wards this week, without much results. Monday he opened in the First ward. Perhaps it was because he belongs in the First and his friends wer afraid he would be lonesome if they did not appear and register; anyhow, 17 of them added their names to the book. This is an average of 8½ per hour and does not keep one busy. Tuesday evening at the Second ward five names were added to the list. Of course it was wet, but people were out for other purposes and some could have registered as well as not. Wednesday evening the city clerk's office was open for registration.
